FEELING AROUSED OVER LONG DELAY

Residents of Western Part of the City Want Logan St. Bridge Completed—Copp Granted Two Extensions.

Considerable feeling is beginning to manifest itself among the residents of the western part of the city over the delay in finishing the Logan st. bridge by Contractor C. W. Copp. Residents of this vicinity as well as those of the Park have waited long and patiently for the completion of the structure, but they claim that no effort is being made to speed up the work and that but a handful of men are working at one time on the structure.

Already two extensions have been granted the contractor in charge over the time originally set for the completion of the bridge and it is understood that the citizens of the city, especially those near the bridge site, will oppose the granting of another extension. This is on the ground that plenty of time has already been given the contractor within which to complete the job.

Work began on the Logan st. bridge in September, 1911. Therefore practically two years time has been put in on the work. The bridge was to have been finished in a year but the winter following the beginning of the work the contractor met with some setbacks when the ice and water washed out several embankments. For this reason he was granted an extension of time within which to complete the job. When it was found that this extension was inadequate another was granted. This will run out shortly and as there seems to be no possibility of finishing the structure within this time it is supposed that another extension of time will be asked for.

The engineer and commissioners have been lenient with the contractor and the residents who will use the structure, claim that they have suffered their share of inconvenience and that some should be shifted to the contractors.

IMPROVEMENT TO LAKE SHORE FREIGHT HOUSE

An improvement, the first in seven years, at the Lake Shore in the way of building construction will be started within a few days as contracts will soon be let. It is possible that a local contractor will get the work.

The improvement is to be made to the freight house and in the office here. An extension of 60 feet will be made to the present warehouse east of the platform between the freight house and the grain elevator will be torn away and a new building will be constructed. The new building will be constructed of the same material as that which was used in the old grain elevator.

The office will also be enlarged, as the present quarters are very crowded and inconvenient. An addition of 30 feet will be taken from the freight house and will be added as an added wing to the office. The new building will be constructed of the same material as that which was used in the old grain elevator.

This is a much needed improvement as the increased volume of business in the city has made the office very large. There are now 18 people employed in that department of the local business.

Seven years ago when the new passenger station was built the old building was moved across the tracks and was added to the freight house for an office, but they have now outgrown this.

WAR CLOUD HOVERED OVER THE CITY HALL

Turk and Five Assyrians Almost Come to Blows in Argument Over the Purchase of a Silk Shawl.

War clouds hovered over the city hall Friday night.

For a few minutes it appeared that a whole section of the Balkan embroilment was to be dumped all over Assyrion Chief Chappell's office. One lone Turk was matched against five of his most hated enemy, the Assyrian.

Before things quieted down it was feared that the Turk and Assyrian blood would be spilled over the carpets of Chappell's suite.

This is how it started and, by the way, it isn't finished yet. It appears the Turk, whose name as it was deciphered from his license is Lusksowa, peddles silk shawls, neckties and scarfs. One of the Assyrians alleged he bought a shawl from the Turk in front of downtown city hall store on the condition that if his wife liked it he would keep it; if not, he would return it. It appears the Turk agreed to the terms.

The Assyrian then says he went around the corner to show it to his wife. Apparently she didn't like it for he brought it back and wanted his three dollars back that he had paid the Turk for the shawl.

At this point the war cloud hove in sight. The Assyrian charged the Turk refused to give him the money back. The Turk charged back that he never sold anything to the Assyrian in question. When he refused to give back the three dollars, the Assyrian called Officer Stull, who brought the Turk to the city hall.

Accompanying him was the Assyrian buyer and four of his countrymen. They came as witnesses to the transaction.

Denies the Charge. Upon arrival at the assistant chief's office the Turk began a hysterical denial of any sale and of any knowledge of the man he was alleged to have deceived out of three dollars. Bowing and salaaming all over the office, he excused himself at least 200 times for taking Chappell's time, but insisted he did not know the Assyrian.

It was difficult to understand him. Chappell inquired of him what language he could speak. He answered Turkish, Arabian and French. When the other Assyrians stepped forward to talk Arabian, the Turk immediately said he did not know how to speak Arabian and refused several questions put to him in Arabian.

The Assyrian evidently made some cutting remark about Turks in general and the Turk immediately flew up and answered in a tirade of Arabian. At this point the declaration of war was made and the Turk declared he would not be intimidated by the Assyrians.

The Assyrians denied this and retaliated with the shot that the Turks were not even worth the name of man. They began to edge in on the Turk. Reporters standing near began edging out of the firing zone and to make ready for bullets.

Chief Chappell entered at this point as the Powers and suggested that the matter be taken before Prosecutor Montgomery.

So the war cloud blew over and the Assyrians decided to see the prosecutor Saturday morning.

ROADS AGREE TO LET BOARD PICK ITS QUESTIONS

certain and Judge Chambers is going ahead with plans for the board's work. The judge will leave Sunday night for New York to confer with representatives of the railroads and the employees and it is not likely that the controversy will be brought officially to the attention of the board before that time.

The first meeting of the board would have been held Friday afternoon, but owing to the absence in Boston of one of the members, Louis F. Post, assistant secretary of labor, it was decided to wait until Saturday. A telegram was sent to Mr. Post urging his return.

Judge Chambers said Friday night that the board would sit permanently in Washington and he hoped to have as many at the meetings here as possible.

Speaking of his call at the white house Friday to thank Pres. Wilson for his appointment, he said that he had never met the president before. The president told him he had appointed the man who was almost universally favored for the position.

DEBILITIOUS HE PENS NOTE OF FAREWELL

But Police Find Writer Still in His Room and Send Him to Hospital.

"You don't need to look for me; you won't find me for 5 o'clock I will be 100 miles from here."

Bearing these words a note was found shortly after 6 o'clock Friday morning on the door of the room occupied by John A. Lindrath, 325 1-3 Leland av., where he has been boarding.

"And tell the doctor not to come any more. Tell the milkman not to leave any more milk," continued the note.

In spite of the note Lindrath was heard moving around in his room by the family of John Jacobs, who live on the first floor, and the police were called. They broke in the door and found Lindrath still there.

He had evidently changed his mind about going away for he told the police he wanted to go to Epworth hospital. He was taken there, where Lindrath has been suffering for the past few days with a high fever and it is thought that he became delirious during the night and wrote the note.

LAND SALE BRINGS $24,000 TO ORPHANS

The American Trust Co. has sold to the Indiana Title and Loan Co. the tract of 63 acres on the Portage road left by the late Minerva Good, widow of John Good, to the Children's Aid society, which maintains the Orphans' home between South Bend and Mishawaka.

The tract was left for the purpose of establishing an Old Ladies' home in the will of Mrs. Good. But as the necessary steps toward the establishment of such an institution were not taken within the year specified, the trust company, as trustee under the will, was authorized to sell the property and devote the proceeds to the Orphans' home.

The tract has been platted by the title and loan company.

SENATORS HEAR OF ATTEMPT TO BRIBE GOMPERS

"Further, I want to tell the committee that those men at that table have kept a little more money than they should have, and I have been steadily at me while I have been on the stand. I think it is a contemptible trick. The ex-president (John Kirby, Jr.) relieved Mr. Emery at the job a little while ago."

Members of the committee tried to soothe the witness and Acting Chairman Bankhead mildly suggested that Mulhall look at him instead of at his antagonists. Mulhall admitted he was somewhat nervous, but insisted that witnesses have been intimidated since they were brought to Washington, "outside as well as inside this committee room."

Letters identified Friday covered a wide range of activity, but centered chiefly about the campaign in Indiana in 1908, when Mulhall, according to the documents, was working in close co-operation with Cong. James E. Watson against national and state republican leaders.

Mulhall told the committee he raised $5,500 for that campaign. One of the letters referred to this amount, and another mentioned a list of manufacturing concerns in South Bend, the proprietors of which had been visited by Mulhall in company with Peter Kline, deputy factory inspector for that district.

"In an interview I had with Mr. Parry and other large business men of this section, they clearly stated they were jumping the law as far as corporations are concerned, subsidizing our campaign funds," said Mulhall in a letter to Schwedman from Indianapolis Sept. 26, 1908.

"There are a hundred and one ways to get around that and we all know that, and I cannot see why Mr. Van Cleave cannot go around it just as well as the large manufacturers here."

Correspondence read late in the day showed that the Indianapolis News had identified Mulhall as connected with the Manufacturers' association in September and had brought the matter into public discussion. Mulhall laughingly told the committee that local, state and national campaign managers had consistently denied that they knew anything about any work had been going on for nearly a year in Indiana.

In a letter to John Kirby, Jr., from Indianapolis, Sept. 23, 1903, just after some of the so-called Archbold letters had been made public, referring to Sen. Foraker, Mulhall said he still had faith in Ohio's great senator, and thought he would win. He expressed surprise that Roosevelt was stirring up the Standard Oil matter and said, "the president is playing very poor politics."

"Instead of gaining votes, he will find on the third of November that it will be a losing game," said the letter. "Even the Standard Oil company has its friends, and I cannot understand why a man of his stripe will think it is a crime for a man to honestly work for a corporation of that kind."

The Citizens' Industrial association of America, with C. W. Post as its president, and many officers of the National association of Manufacturers on its list, figured prominently in Friday's proceedings. Several letters on the stationery of this association, and signed "James A. Emery, Secretary," were read and Sen. Reed suggested it was a "half brother" to the Manufacturers' association.

One of these letters said: "Watson was not only the greatest help to us personally, but he represented all the forces that did help us, and I personally believe that we need friends in congress far more than anywhere else. Mr. Taft's labor statements are not at all encouraging."

NEW MEMBER IS PRESENT

Irvin W. Jackson, recently appointed by Mayor Goetz, took his seat as a member of the park board Friday night. The resignation of Simon E. Greenbaum was read and accepted.

The park board reports that grading on the road at Leeper park has been completed and that work will be begun at once toward grading Potawatomi park.

MICHIGAN WOMAN HAD 20-INCH NECK

United Doctors Reduced Her Neck Over Three Inches in Five Weeks.

Mrs. Wiltberger, wife of a prominent contractor of Northern Michigan, makes a statement in regard to the United Doctors, those expert medical specialists who have their South Bend Institute located on the second floor of the Toepf Building on So. Main st., opposite the Post Office, that is well worth the attention of any sick person. Any one who is doubtful about the following statement can write Mrs. Wiltberger, or any bank in Whittemore, Mich., to ask about her standing in that community. Here is her statement:

"I have had a Goitre, or Big Neck, for the last ten years, and it had grown to measure 20 inches around my neck. The pressure was so great that I could hardly breathe, and my eye sight was so affected that some days it was difficult for me to see. I was very nervous and could not sleep. The growth in my throat pressed upward so much that I could not wear the lower plate of my dentures. My appetite was very poor, and I seemed to be losing my mind. Sometimes I could scarcely remember my own name. I tried a number of doctors and advertised remedies without any benefit. In fact I went so far as to go to have an operation performed on my neck, but when the surgeon told me that might not live through the operation I backed out and went home.

Having heard of the United Doctors through a lady friend I decided to give them a call, although I confess I had no faith that they could cure me. After giving me a careful examination they told me that they could help me, and as a last hope I decided to give them a chance. I have now been taking treatment from them for about five weeks, and my neck has reduced more than three inches in size. I am getting strong, sleep fine, have a good appetite, and can see and breathe all right. I feel like a new person, and I feel certain that the cure will be complete and permanent. I take pleasure in recommending the United Doctors to any person in need of medical assistance, especially any one suffering from Goitre.

Respectfully yours,
Luisa Wiltberger.
Whittemore, Mich."

Voluntary testimonials like the above, coming from a heart full of gratitude for her saved life and health, with other objects to guide some other sufferer to reputable, skillful specialists, is what has gained for the United Doctors the confidence of all who know them.

The United Doctors do not depend upon mere statements to prove the superiority of their new system of treatment. They point with pride to a clear record of cures made in their various institutes and service last year, and refer you to hundreds of thousands of patients who were sick but are now well and strong.

Any sick person is safe in going to these specialists. Their examination and consultation are free, honest, and confidential, and if they cannot relieve your suffering they will candidly tell you so and not take one penny of your money.
